

WOMEN OF PUNK

a zine by Mal

The UN says the theme of this year's International Women's Day is "Rights. Justice. Action. For ALL Women and Girls."

My personal theme for this year's IWD is "fuck shit up".

This zine exists to make punk women & girls (including trans women and non-binary people) visible. Some are admirable, some aren't.

Without them - without us - punk as we know it WOULD NOT EXIST.

We're here. What are you gonna do about it?

NO WAR NO KKK NO FASCIST USA

I started writing this zine a long time ago. I wanted to celebrate punk women's history but doesn't "celebrating" take off the jagged edges? Domesticate the history? Make it acceptable to people who really don't care? How obscene, how sick how gross it is to celebrate the freedom some women have while ignoring the organized murder of people in Iran, Lebanon & Palestine. Ignoring the girls school the most powerful, well-armed, furthest-seeing military in the world "accidentally" bombed, killing over a hundred women & girls. Your freedom & my freedom is connected. We will not escape the bombs that drop on you. When I think of punk women, I don't just think of funny women & smart women & kickass women & joyful women who started bands & zines. I think of women who show incredible bravery in the cause of peace & justice & women who have had no choice but to be brave. I think of the women from the Yellow Gate camp at Greenham Common who walked into free fire zones to protest the use of a Welsh village to train British soldiers. I think of women who have walked onto the runways at Shannon Airport to stop the US planes. I think of Ola Herbich. I think of Maricela Rueda, who is in jail right now. And I start to think I need to start doing something about it, not just writing.

FEMINISMUS

ODER BONK

Hearken unto me, fellow creatures. I who have dwelt in a form unmatched with my desire, I whose flesh has become an assemblage of incongruous anatomical parts, I who achieve the similitude of a natural body only through an unnatural process, I offer you this warning: the Nature you be-devil me with is a lie. Do not trust it to protect you from what I represent, for it is a fabrication that cloaks the groundlessness of the privilege you seek to maintain for yourself at my expense. You are as constructed as me; the same anarchic womb has birthed us both. I call upon you to investigate your nature as I have been compelled to confront mine. I challenge you to risk abjection and flourish as well as have I. Heed my words, and you may well discover the seams and sutures in yourself.

I started making a collage of pictures of punk women, but then I realized I had more pictures of blonde women than of punk women of colour. Let me not perpetuate the stereotypes I oppose
